Running priest says he misses leadership of Cardinal Sin

WRITING FOR A RIDE HOME
An hour at a restaurant in Legaspi City in Albay leaves back on a trip today but will make for a passenger he that would take him and his family back to Manila after the holidays.

By Mike Dizon

COMING FROM THE 1990 Year's Eve Mass he officiated for the Manila Peninsula Hotel at Camp Crame, running priest Fr. Robert Reyes lamented the absence of the late Manila Archbishop Jaime Cardinal Sin at the aftermath of the Nov. 29 scandal.

"All the more that I'm missing Cardinal Sin," Reyes said to the Inquirer.

Reyes said that since Sin's death in June 2005, the country has been a Catholic Church leadership that has increasingly become "complacent and afraid" care for some critical statements issued by the influential Catholic Bishop Gaudencio Rosales (BGR) under the guise of a new leadership under Cardinal Sin.

High court voids sale of prime land owned by a sequestered company

By Leticia B. Subido

THE SUPREME COURT has voided the fraudulent sale of four parcels of prime land of a sequestered company and has said the properties should be returned to the government until their true owners are known.

The high court also noted that the questionable sale of the properties, including a 4000 square meter and 10000 square meter lots owned along Manila Waterfront, appears to have been done by former officials of Manila Waterfront Corporation who had been appointed by the Presidential Commission on Good Government.

"The sale of four parcels of prime land along Manila Waterfront, owned and controlled by a distinct entity of President Marcos in the Aquino government leaves the impression of a grand scam perpetrated by the very same persons appointed by the President Commission on Good Government to safeguard the assets of the sequestered companies," it said.

It added that the said properties should remain in the hands of the government until their true owner is known.

"It would be unfair to allow the 1990 work as based on the case. They only to have these lots due to misrepresentation of an owner's opinion," it said.

The high court upheld a Court of Appeals ruling and said Manila Waterfront should not claim ownership of the said properties, which he bought from Manila Development Corp., because the latter had fraudulently acquired the parcels of land by neglecting the company.

Reyes said questioned by the high court the Court of Appeals ruling that had declared null and void the Supreme Court 1990 decision of the said company, and the October 1994 deed of sale between Manila Waterfront and the said company, and to issue an order to the owner of the said properties.

In upholding the appeal court's ruling, the high court said Manila's former president, Miguel Maguiness, had denied signing the deed of sale and had said that he could not have authorized the purchase of the land because he had left Manila in 1982.

"The transaction in this case constitutes sufficient basis for the Court to conclude that the signatures appearing on the deed of sale are not those of the president," it said.

It added the destruction of the documents of the said signatures was a material and deliberate act of fraud and was a violation of the law.

It also said that there could have been no valid transfer of the land between Manila Waterfront and the said company, because the latter had not been authorized to sell the land.

The high court also said that the payment made for the supposed sale of the land to Manila Waterfront, and the said company, was a fraud and was a violation of the law.

Barias: Promise, PNP report on mall blast out next week

By Alvin Pineda

ADMINISTRATORS, OFFICIALS AND OWNERS of the Gloriosa 2 shopping mall in Makati City could face charges for the Jan. 19 blast that killed 11 people and injured hundreds.

Police is yet to file the controversy over the police investigation into the explosion, Director-Geny Barias, chief of the National Capital Region Police Office (NCRO), announced yesterday that the final report on the probe into the blast will be released sometime next week.

But even before the release of the probe results, Barias said everyone who lives and works in the vicinity of the mall, including the basement offices, must be evacuated, with charges resulting in multiple homicide and arson charges.

"Responsibility will fall with those involved in the operation, maintenance and repair of the building. And even the owners," Barias said yesterday.

Apila Land's statement

Apila Land Inc. (ALI) spokesperson Alvin Reyes said the company performed its duty in its statement when the PNP report has been issued.

"It is difficult to comment on speculation surrounding charges which have not been filed and supposedly occurred in a report which has not been issued," Reyes said. Apila Land also stressed that it does not believe that negligence contributed to the mall blast.

"The scientific basis for their (PNP's) gas theory has not been established and in its statement on the filing of charges against specific people is premature, until we receive the final report," Reyes added.

"As we investigate, however, that we have maintained our properties with proper care and diligence and we do not believe that negligence is a contributing factor as the cause of the explosion," he said.

Reyes declined to say exactly who would be charged, pending the release of the final report. He also did not say if suits could be filed against the mall's management.

In mid-November, Bureau of Investigation (BI) had received several complaints, including witnesses and the mall administration, during the investigation.

The Philippine National Police and the BI are just two agencies investigating the Makati-Ayala investigation. (The PNP, DICTO) designed to probe the explosion.

The PNP initially said the blast may have been caused by an explosion of liquefied petroleum gas (LPG) but later reversed it. It finally concluded that the explosion was caused by an accumulation of gases in the basement.

But he said he hoped that "all doubts will be fully explained" when police either this come out with the report next week.

He also explained why it took him long for the PNP to come up with the final report.

"We really asked for some time because this is very technical. It has forensic analysis, forensic examination... we have to be scientific not only because we will be filing charges but also because we have to satisfy the public. But then again, we can satisfy everyone," Barias said.

He said investigators wanted to explain thoroughly how the gases could have accumulated in the basement, how they were triggered and how they could have caused the damage that they did.

Reyes, the BI, which was given responsibility for examining the evidence collected from the basement of Gloriosa 2, was not working during the holiday break, he said.

Chief Insp. Lito Tolentino, director of the Southern Police District and NCRO head, had also asked for an extension of the deadline for the submission of the final report.

The project is being undertaken under the Kyoto Protocol – a United Nations – sponsored program that aims to reduce emissions of greenhouse gases (GHG) to the atmosphere.

To date, the Tandoan-Mitsubishi project is the first and the largest Clean Development Mechanism in the country involving the private and manufacturing sectors. The project was approved by the designated National Authority for Japan: The Ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry on June 23, 2006 and subsequently by the designated National Authority for the Philippines - Department of Environment and Natural Resources on June 30, 2006. Principal signatures to the CDM agreements are Dr. Lucio C. Tan for Tandoan Distillers, Mr. William T. Yuzing for Absolut Chemicals and Mr. Ichiro Kaida for Mitsubishi Corporation. DENR Secretary Jose L. Alvarado was a Guest of Honor during the signing ceremonies.

understate together a Clean Development Mechanism Project. The business system also said that he is very honest to be a part of this very first CDM project in the country. This is the UGC way of giving back something to the social community and to providing other business firms to do the same. He thanked Mitsubishi Corporation for choosing Tertiary Oilfield, Inc. and Abiodun Olanibade, Inc. to be their partner in this project. Dr. Tai also thanked the Department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR), particularly Honorable Secretary Jose L. Alameda and former Secretary Angelo Reyes for their invaluable support in clearing the way for this project.

Mr. Isidor Rucka, VPP and General Manager of Mitsubishi Corporation's Envision, Rockwell Business Unit, explained the rationale of the Clean Development Mechanisms. He said that there are no barriers in our area and the same applies in other greenhouse gases, such as methane. Once greenhouse gases are injected into the atmosphere, they are dispersed evenly all around the earth within a short time. In other words, no matter where greenhouse gases are injected, they affect the entire planet. On the other hand, whenever greenhouse gases are reduced in the world, the impact on earth will be equally positive. The Mitsubishi Corporation has its CDM projects registered with the United Nations and another sixteen CDM projects are a rising regional phenomenon. Sri Lanka is a back-seller for CDOM projects in Asia and they are very positive to maintain the relationship.

MANILA, Philippines—Sen. Antonio was arrested to continue the proceedings. At this point, the arrest of these politicians and productive efforts in addressing pollution in the Philippines. Sen. Antonio was quite proud to note that under the Kyoto Protocol, we have begun to address successfully the damaging effects of the world's toxic gases of global warming and climate change caused by pollution. Two major environmental phenomena being addressed by the United Nations. He also cited the agreement on the responsibility of Multinational Corporation and transnational institutions, he and Chemicals, Inc. is taking measures at present to care for the environment by reducing methane gases and conserving other industry wastes to follow suit in this noble and global endeavor. Sheffer expressed optimism that this first step with greatly help our nation in the effort to contribute solutions to these worldwide problems and that he just put as all surprised that Dr. Tan would be the first to take up the mantle of environmental stewardship for this country.

It's OK to listen to seers but we should still rely on God, say bishops

By Marjorie C. Ortiz

IT'S ALL RIGHT TO LISTEN TO seers for their insights and long that experts but their predictions should not be used to make our own decisions, a leading Church official said yesterday.

"Make those to be seen by their hearts, but we should not rely only on these omens. Decisions should always be based on faith," Cardinal Nichols, Archbishop of the Philippines, said yesterday.

In an interview with reporters, Nichols said predictions of natural calamities the year should be taken with a grain of salt.

"Calamities could still take place even if someone relies on seer predictions," he said.

DOJ blinks, lets Jalosjos stay in Zamboanga jail

By Kenneth C. ...

in great trouble, which he would rather not do.

"I think it would be wisest to let Jalosjos stay in jail and then let him face the law of the judge. We will wait for the court to finish," he said.

Consider said he believed that Jalosjos would influence in Zamboanga del Norte, but did not know if this extended to the total county.

"We want Zamboanga. We will always have that apprehension," he said, noting that two House representatives of the province were his relatives and a justice was a close acquaintance.

Consider said he had seen one additional solution to settle the case at the Zamboanga City Regional Trial Court in case of a military solution in the province.

The warring sides were in question any such ruling before the Court of Appeals in Cagayan de Oro City, he said.

Jalosjos refused to sign the peace accord on Dec. 22 on the strength of a nation order that the Department of Justice has since rescinded. He was arrested in his native Zamboanga del Norte on Dec. 22 and held in the San Ramon prison, but was released on Dec. 22.

The Justice Department said a habeas corpus petition with the Zamboanga Regional Trial Court questioning the legality of Jalosjos' detention.

"The Zamboanga court has issued an order stopping Jalosjos' transfer from San Ramon back to the DOJ," he said.

"If correct, the hearing is in Zamboanga City [in Del Norte] and Del Norte, Zamboanga, will consider that again. That's why I'm afraid the justice system is again not properly informed. It is one of an absolute disaster we'll be in a position before the UN in Cagayan de Oro," Consider said.

Escaped inmates

In a memorandum to the Zamboanga court, the DOJ said

COURTROOM FANMIER Consider Jalosjos appears in good mood during the court hearing on his habeas corpus petition. He was observed to joke with his police escort from the San Ramon Prison and Peral Farm (left) outside Zamboanga City.

Jalosjos was badly arrested and detained because he was considered an escaped convict when he left the San Ramon Prison on Dec. 22 and flew to his hometown in Cagayan de Oro.

The DOJ said that Jalosjos was being detained because of his alleged connection with a justice from Zamboanga del Norte, but did not know if this extended to the total county.

"We want Zamboanga. We will always have that apprehension," he said, noting that two House representatives of the province were his relatives and a justice was a close acquaintance.

ROMULO ZARDES

against former Duterte Governor Romulo Zardes for not informing the Office of the President of all the DOJ's plans to release Jalosjos.

"Clearly speaking, even he's no longer with the government, maybe he can still be changed under the Anti-Corruption Law for giving unwarranted benefits (to Jalosjos)," Consider said.

But the DOJ has not yet decided whether to release Jalosjos, he said.

In his Jan. 1 resolution recommending Jalosjos' release, the DOJ said the DOJ had discussed the release of the prisoner because it is only informed the release of some kinds of DOJ. The plan to release, based on which Jalosjos' continued detention, two life terms, which placed Jalosjos' release that when he turns 70.

However, following the recommendation, the DOJ applied two other kinds of DOJ's worth two and a half years, which led to the recommendation of Jalosjos' release and the grant of his earlier release date.

It was the second set of DOJ that was discussed by the DOJ, saying the DOJ failed to follow the provisions of the law that were cited in granting the release date.

DPWH project delays cost P5.7B

By Kenneth C. ...

With "unreasonable progress" announced last week awarded on time to contractors.

It noted that the contract package for the road rehabilitation project is three but that the project was awarded on Dec. 24, 2000. However, the bidding took place only on April 12, 2000, and the awarding on June 21, 2000.

Meanwhile, the contract package for the Zamboanga del Norte project under the Forest Fund for Anti-Erosion Development (FFAED) was awarded on July 27, 1999. The bidding was held three years after on Sept. 24, 2000, and the awarding on March 27, 2000.

Project cost up by 60%

The new year delay in the implementation of the Manila Flood Control Project of the Manila Flood Control Project has increased the project cost by 60 percent—from P1.1 billion to P1.8 billion.

The magnitude, which amounts to 64 km from Baguio, Tuguegarao, to Tuguegarao, is designed to mitigate flood damage from Laguna Lake. It was supposed to have been finished in six and a half years from the time it was started in 1990.

The DPWH said that delays were the major cause of the delay in the construction of the project.

The COA report also stated that the department had paid out a total of P62.8 million more to various contractors for the project because of late payment of bills and claims.

The 48 projects left under the department's Financial Management, First National Funds Improvement and Management Project, Standard Operating Procedure of the DPWH project.

The COA report said.

Slow mobilization of funds

The DPWH also incurred considerable loss for the same project worth P17.375 million because of the slow mobilization of funds previously.

"Contractors have been paid to a bank in exchange for the bank's agreement to grant a loan at a later date.

The government also incurred more unnecessary expenditures when the contractor for the Agno River Flood Control Project claimed a price adjustment of P14.5 million because of the delay in the procurement process.

"Evaluation of documents showed that the bidding date was on Dec. 13, 1991, and the date of mobilization was on Dec. 18, 2000—a total of 719 calendar days which is beyond the permissible days," said the report.

The cost is shared by the participating project.

In all similar cases, the contract for Package 4 of the Baguio River Flood Control Project involving the protection of houses and houses held, increased "unreasonable" cost of work items, increasing charges of some P12 million for the project.

Idle time for equipment

The COA noted that the contractors of the same project supplied it in to determine what specific items in the contract carried contingencies.

A total of P10 million in idle time for the use of equipment, manpower and materials of three contractors—projects—the equipment of the project in Baguio, the Agno River Flood Control Project, and the Baguio River Flood Control Project of the Zamboanga del Norte project and the construction of the Agno River Flood Control Project—was also charged to the government, the report said.

Plane overshoots Masbate runway due to strong winds

43 passengers, 4 crew shaken, but none hurt

LEGASPI CITY—DUE TO STRONG winds, an AirAsia plane overshoot the runway and crashed the runway fence as it landed on the Masbate City airport Wednesday morning.

The plane's 43 passengers, 7 of whom were children, and four flight attendants were shaken but none were injured, said airport manager Jordana Nolasco.

Nolasco said the airport's communication facilities were functioning well, only that the winds were strong and beyond control.

She said the airport's communication facilities were functioning well, only that the winds were strong and beyond control.

She added, in a mobile phone interview, that a rescue equipment would also be sent from the JICA construction office to clear the disturbed airfield.

The cost of damage had not yet been estimated but Nolasco said part of the runway fence was destroyed.

In a photo of the accident area in the location, the plane's right wing appears to have protruded to the national road behind the fence and almost hit side street stores and houses.

Nolasco added that the aircraft's right propeller, motor, right and nose wheels were destroyed.

The plane is a 75-13 type of aircraft, which can carry 147 passengers, and is about 30 meters long and 9 meters high with wingspan of 32 meters flying at a cruise speed of 810 kilometers per hour.

The AirAsia plane is an airline operating domestic and international routes serving routes linking Manila and Cebu with 24 flights to destination in support of the trade route of other airlines.

The AirAsia plane looks like it had hit houses along the national road going into the Masbate airport. But photos show there only a damaged concrete fence and damage to some parts of the plane.

of security in Nigeria could not be ruled out.

The attack delayed the repatriation of the 36 citizens who were scheduled to be released to Lagos by Jan. 1, said De Castro.

Meanwhile, the Rome state government has informed the Philippines that the five American seamen would only be freed next week.

De Castro said the 36 citizens would be released to Lagos by evening yesterday from Lagos, they will be taken to Manila for their flight back to the Philippines.

The five prisoners and the would-be hijacker had been taken to the United Arab Emirates International, which was responsible for the deployment of the aircraft, to pay for the repatriation costs.

Classes in 50,000 public schools resume today after 12-day break

By Jerry C. Esguerra

AFTER A 12-DAY SILENCE, CLASSES in the 50,000-plus public schools nationwide will resume today according to the Department of Education.

The resumption of classes is covered by DepEd Order No. 11, issued on Dec. 25, 2007 by Undersecretary for Region 10 Education Division.

Covered by the directive are some 31,000 state-run preschools, 37,000 elementary schools and nearly 5,000 secondary schools across the country.

On the other hand, classes in most, if not all, the country's 14,000 private preschools, elementary and high schools will resume on Monday, Jan. 7.

It is a "prerequisite of administrative of the respective private schools," said the DepEd.

Based on the DepEd order, there are two remaining public school holidays for the 2007-2008 school year: March 30 (Mundy) and April 1.

SSS urged to invest in 'lucrative' projects

A LABOR GROUP YESTERDAY ASKED the Social Security System (SSS) to invest in "lucrative" projects to provide income to its members.

The group said the SSS should invest in highly profitable infrastructure projects, such as the construction of new roads, bridges and other public works.

March 20 (Good Friday).

The current school year ends on March 20.

Meanwhile, the DepEd estimated the impact of the suspension of classes in both public and private schools in the event of weather disturbances and calamities, both natural and man-made.

Using Department Order No. 28, DepEd Secretary Juli A. Lapina said classes in the preschool level are automatically suspended when typhoon signal no. 1 is raised by the Philippine Atmospheric, Geophysical and Astronomical Services Administration in Pagasa.

Classes in the elementary and high schools are automatically suspended when typhoon signal no. 2 is raised by Pagasa.

The DepEd has no jurisdiction over private schools, which is a concern of the Commission on Higher Education.

In the absence of typhoon signal warnings from Pagasa, "localities are prone to classes in both public and private schools in the preschool, elementary and secondary levels can be decided by local government officials, as well as local regional directors, division superintendents or school principals," said the department.

Lapina noted "Pagasa has the prerogative to determine whether or not students should go to school" during times of bad weather.

Last year, President Gloria Macapagal Arroyo issued Administrative Order No. 196, empowering the Secretary of Education to declare the suspension of classes in times of disasters or calamities.

The President's directive, however, "does not nullify the powers of other government agencies (like the DepEd) and local officials to suspend classes for the protection and safety of students, faculty and school personnel."

The SSS should invest in highly profitable infrastructure projects, such as the construction of new roads, bridges and other public works.

Gov't job creation target likely hit in '07, says Neda

Services sector, agriculture boost employment generation efforts

By Minnie V. Ramos

THE ECONOMY HAS ALREADY GENERATED at least one million jobs in 2007, likely achieving the administration's target of creating one million jobs in the first half of 2007.

This was according to the National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA) and that the economy was growing and improved production by the agricultural sector boosted job generation last year.

"The target of generating one million jobs a year may have been already hit in 2007," the latest report showed a decline in the unemployment rate in October," said NEDA Director General Antonio Buena Vista.

The Medium Term Philippine Development Plan (MTPDP) set a target of 1.8 million to 1.8 million per year. This was in accord with the one million jobs. Despite the recession, however, the government failed to meet the goal in the previous years.

That from the NEDA showed that from the 179,000 jobs created in 2004, the figure rose to 209,000 in 2005 and 219,000 in 2006. The NEDA said that in 2007, the number of jobs created likely reached at least one million. In January to October, the government agency said, at least 767,000 jobs were generated.

The NEDA said the figure could have increased in the following months and possibly reached one million by the end of 2007.

The NEDA said the fourth quarter was the best time when the economy grew the fastest due to higher spending for the Christmas holidays.

The economy, measured in terms of gross domestic product, grew by 7.1 percent in the first three quarters of 2007, the highest in almost 20 years. This prompted optimism in managers in a survey of the Philippine manufacturing sector.

The unexpected GDP growth in the first three quarters was attributed to increased government spending, higher investments and the rise in household consumption. It was also due to the strong foreign exchange remittance from overseas Filipino workers.

The economy's better than expected performance during the period triggered optimism that the full year growth would reach the official target of 8.1 to 8.3 percent.

NEDA said the GDP growth for 2007 was likely to average 7 percent.

The NEDA said that the benefits of the employment generation were already trickling down to the masses, as most jobs were being created.

The National Statistics Office (NSO) earlier reported that the unemployment rate dropped to 8.3 percent of the country's labor force in October 2007 from 7.3 percent in December 2006.

The NSO said the services sector accounted for almost half, or 48.8 percent, of the employment generation in October. This is a decline from the 50.8 percent in the third quarter of 2006. COUNTRY COOKING
Micky Perio

A good trip

THE FIRST TIME I WENT ON A food trip, an Internet production unit, was ages ago to research regional cuisine for a book. It was three months of constant flying and meeting by car.

You can tell me how to begin the project, but somewhere, instinctively, I know how. Maybe I was a researcher in my former life. I had to get information about the place, what food is looking like to me.

The best way was to connect with people who were from there. They could be interviewed right away and, sometimes, they would tell little and interesting places I was looking to show me around.

Former classmates, former colleagues, relatives of relatives were tapped and sought out. The plan usually worked except for my travel to Michigan. I was supposed to go to Toledo but a friend was no longer there. I thought there was a chance where I was an old friend in Zambanga who was with the military and who offered to take me to Toledo. My Zambanga contacts advised me to proceed instead to Toledo, which was my original plan.

My friends have learned that the patchy project I was going to see was managed. I asked a friend to drive if there were more to the story. Thankfully, the Medical Mission Society had a hospital there (now closed).
